SASQUATCH

“S/T”

Quick and to the point, Sasquatch is about as close as Small Stone is going to get to signing a local band from right here in the Motor City (Hey, two out of three members ain't bad). But make no mistake this is no watered down MTVfriendly garage rock band. Our boys from Sasquatch eat, drink, and breathe rock and roll. From the top of their Mojave stacks to the toes of their electro harmonix pedals these three down to earth guys simply love to rock and they do it with a sincerity not often seen in today's world of plastic pop and gimmicky garage.

Formed in Los Angeles back in the year 2001 by Philadelphia transplant Keith Gibbs and Detroit native's Rick Ferrante & Clayton Charles, Sasquatch has had the pleasure of refining their own brand of super heavy bone crunching rock and roll on the same stages with some of LA's finest including: Fireball Ministry, Nebula, and Unida which in turn, has quickly helped the band become a local favorite and has helped to develop a name that is synonymous with quality kick ass rock. Drawing on influences from 70' metal, rock and psychedelia their songwriting approach is simple and mainly relies on the theories of feel and technique, a sorely missed aspect of most modern day rock amalgamations. But don't let their technique fool you, tight as they may be, when they come to play the kid gloves are off. Just ask any of the folks who where down in Austin earlier this year at SXSW2004, Sasquatch handed the crowd at the Room 710 its'inebriated ass on a platter for 45 straight minutes of rock'n'roll bliss. Not to mention the fact that the band snuck over to Headhunters club the next day for an even better impromptu Happy Hour set. When you finally get a chance to see the band live, you will fully comprehend what we are talking about...

Make no mistake, the name Sasquatch fits these simple midwestern boys. You most likely have never witnessed Sasquatch (both the band and the mysterious creature that vanished like a cloud of smoke sometime during the year of 1980) but when the amps are on they come alive. The songs are big, the guitar solos are hairy and their debut self titled album is comin' screaming out of the forest and pounding out onto the scene in late Summer 2004. The band will be hitting the road in the Fall, and will most likely be making an appearance at this years CMJ Music Marathon. Get your cameras ready and prepare for Sasquatch.
